Executive Leadership Program

Emerging Leaders Program

Elevate your leadership: navigating complexity in the public sector

ANZSOG recognises the pivotal role public servants play in shaping our societies, and the challenges facing public sector leaders at all levels. Designed exclusively for emerging public sector leaders in Australia and Aotearoa New Zealand, the Emerging Leaders Program (ELP) aims to equip middle and operational managers (whether new to role or experienced) with the essential skills, knowledge, and support you need to thrive in your leadership role.

Delivered in blended mode and led by experienced facilitators, Paul Atkins, Jill Charker and Jason Ardler, this program offers practical insights and guidance to help you drive positive change in the public sector.

Grow your leadership capability

Learn to lead high-performing teams through a focus on accountability, strategic alignment, consultation and employee engagement. Contribute to organisational resilience by building your ability to adapt to change.

Gain cross-functional expertise

Effective leadership cannot exist in a silo. Build a broad knowledge base spanning different program areas, enabling you to better understand and address the challenges faced by different departments.

Build a powerful professional network

Connect with other emerging leaders from both Australia and Aotearoa New Zealand. This program encourages contributions from, and open discussion between, participants to chart a path towards excellence in public service leadership.

Learn from leaders in the field

Facilitated by Dr Paul Atkins, Dr Jill Charker and Jason Ardler PSM, who bring a mix of academic expertise and practical experience, the program also features guest speakers who will share their diverse experiences
